

WHAT'S IN STORE FOR YOU AT THE NCW

Q&A

The National Coaching Week (NCW) is set to be an exciting time for coaches and trainers in Malaysia as the Malaysian Association of Certified Coaches (MACC) introduces a platform to celebrate the importance of Coaching in Malaysia.

The event is set to coincide with the National Training Week (NTW), which is focused on promoting the development of human talent in the country. The NCW aims to bring together coaches and trainers from different backgrounds and experiences to promote the use of coaching and training as key drivers of personal and professional growth.

The NCW aims to bring together coaches, trainers, and HR professionals from all over the country, providing a unique opportunity to network, learn, and share ideas.

The importance of coaching and training in personal and professional growth cannot be overstated. Coaching and training equip individuals with the necessary tools, knowledge, and support required to achieve their goals. They improve their skills and abilities, and increase their confidence, resilience, and motivation to succeed. Coaching and training also foster continuous learning and development, which is essential in today's fast-paced and rapidly changing work environment.

The NCW is a week-long event that will take place annually, with the first set to run from 22-26 May 2023.

The event will feature 2 key programs: Member Participation Program (MPP) and the Member Empowerment Program (MEP).

The MPP Program offers a range of activities relating to coaching skills and knowledge development, which includes Quick Coaching Practices, Watch Master Coaches in Action, and Pro Bono Executive Coaching for leaders from the AIA Call Center and IDPO.

Another one is Coaching Fireside on the last day to promote fellowship and engagement through the Fireside where a panel of mentor coaches will be there for the 'Ask Us Anything' Forum.

The MEP Program is a business development program that offers an exciting opportunity for coaches to showcase their coaching business products, and to sell their coaching knowledge acumen, and ideas.

Here, MACC offers free joint marketing for coach entrepreneurs who want to grow their businesses through its many marketing channels. If you are looking to participate in the MEP do sign up early to secure a 1-2 hour slot for one of the four NCW dates. The deadline for registration is 31 April 2023, with a commitment fee of RM50 to ensure seriousness in participation.

This is a golden opportunity for coaches. Never before will Coaching be celebrated on such a scale! All in all, the launch of National Coaching Week in Malaysia is a significant milestone in promoting Coaching (and training) in personal and professional growth for success and fulfillment.
